The Walmart Foundation Reaches Out to Youth in Camden County

At the Boys & Girls Club of Camden County, children and teens from Camden and surrounding communities had another summer full of learning and fun. For this year's Summer Camp, in addition to reading activities, golf lessons and field trips, campers received healthy snacks through The Walmart Foundation's Summer Servings Food Program.

As a part of its national initiative, Feeding Hungry Children, The Walmart Foundation has formed a partnership with the Boys & Girls Clubs of America to provide healthy meals for more than 93,000 children at 350 chapters across the U.S. The Boys & Girls Club of Camden County was designated as a local participant through this program.

The Summer Servings Food Program is part of the Club's effort to help local youth lead more active and healthy lifestyles including life-skills workshops, cooking classes, sports and games.

About the Boys & Girls Club of Camden County - In its 8th year of operation, the Boys & Girls Club of Camden County is working to help local children and teens to realize their full potential as productive, responsible and caring citizens – to BE GREAT. The Club serves nearly 4,000 youth at its two Clubhouses in Camden providing educational support, mentoring, access to technology, swimming sessions, and career exploration among its many programs and activities.

About The Walmart Foundation – The Walmart Foundation is committed to providing opportunities that improve the lives of individuals in local communities including its customers and associates. The Walmart Foundation supports the volunteer efforts of its associates and provides financial support to the most underserved populations and the organizations that serve them. To date, The Walmart Foundation has donated $7.8 million to support food banks and provide healthy, summer meals to children and families.
